Setting-up, Activating, Re-charging and Replacing Canteen Cards

Student IC cards are the method of payment accepted at campus canteens (apart from at restaurant-style dining areas where cash can be used). For information on how to re-charge student IC cards, refer to the Student IC Card section on page 10 of this Guide. Normally, most canteens will have a re-charge machine just inside the canteen entrance.

The re-charge and payment system for non-degree program students is different; please consult with one's academic program officer for specific information.

Off-Campus Dining

In the nearby Wudaokou area there is a wide variety of restaurants and cuisines available including Western, Korean, Japanese, along with different Chinese cuisines. Fast food chains such as McDonalds, KFC, Pizza Hut and Yoshinoya are also available.

When eating out, pay attention to food safety. Before dining out in China, many people first check reviews of restaurants by using the website Dazhong Dianping (大众点评): http://www.dianping.com, which also has a mobile app version. Dazhong Dianping provides a vast array of reviews and information, including for dining, shopping, leisure and entertainment.

Food Delivery

Many restaurants offer delivery services, which can be used via third party apps or by calling the restaurant directly. Food ordered on food delivery apps can be paid for using WeChat, Alipay or via bank card. Most apps require advance mobile payment before the food is delivered. During peak hours, food should be ordered in advance to avoid delay. The standard wait-time for deliveries is between 30 minutes and 1 hour. When the food delivery has arrived, the delivery worker will call the mobile number that was provided when the order was made.
